

Co-Op Buying

BY FREDERICK J. HASKIN
Director

Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau, Washington, D. C.

Washington, July 18.—The possibilities of co-operatively buying have been most strikingly demonstrated by a group of employees of the government, the members of which revolve about one of its scientific bureaus which sits on a high hill in the outskirts of Washington. This group has been saving such quantities of money that it has decided that its accomplishments are too good to keep from others who might do likewise. Therefore it points the way to a purchase of anything from eggs to automobile tires at prices that thrill the heart of the bargain hunter.

Next winter when butter is again bringing 85 cents a pound, the tall masted emblems of the bureau of standards here will not be paying more than 55 cents a pound for theirs. It is not a mere declaration of independence, but an assurance that they already have 3,000 pounds of the best grade creamery butter laid away—butter which was bought from a farmers' cooperative creamery in Pennsylvania when butter had reached its lowest price this season. It has been placed in a large refrigerating plant in Washington, where it will be kept in excellent condition until removed, a few pounds at a time during the fall and winter. The cost of storage amounts to only one or two cents a pound.

One of Many Enterprises.

This is only one of many cooperative enterprises organized and financed by bureaus of standards employees, with a view to cutting down expenses. The bureau of standards, Uncle Sam's premier scientific agency, is now one of the most highly co-operative institutions in the country. It has a cooperative lunch club, which serves its members lunches at the rate of 20 cents per person per day, a cooperative store, organized after the Red Cross plan, and in connection with this an automobile accessories station, selling tires and tools as well as gasoline and oil at reduced prices. Occasionally, also, the bureau's employees are bought on a cooperative basis.

The spirit of cooperation was first born in the bureau of standards when it was moved out of its old quarters in the outskirts of Washington, where there were no lunchrooms, drug stores or cigar counters to supply the needs of the lunch period. Lunchroom in the various laboratories was forbidden by government regulation, so the employees were compelled to plan their own eating arrangements. They obtained permission from the government to turn two large rooms into a restaurant, and then they formed a luncheon club. One of the rooms was equipped with a gas stove and kitchen utensils, the other with the necessary chairs and chairs. The club found that for the price of $4 a month it could serve to each of its members a hot lunch, consisting of such combinations as roast beef, mashed potatoes, peas and ice cream or salmon salad, lima beans, stewed tomatoes, prunes and cake.

Price is 20 cents per day.

With the war, however, the price had to be raised to $5 a month or 23 cents a day. This was paid in advance to the treasurer of the club on the fifteenth of each month. Hereafter, the club expects to be about for luncheon a day or two, he tells the superintendent of the luncheon the night before and the price of the two days' luncheon is added to the bill. The superintendent of the luncheon is a domestic science graduate, a young woman, employed to plan the menus and manage the business. She is assisted by a young man, who is in charge of the kitchen. The food is placed upon the tables in large vegetable dishes or on platters, from which each person serves himself, thus eliminating the expense of table service. Two lunch tables are served every day, 160 persons being seated each time.

In addition to lunches, breakfasts, and dinners are also now being served at the bureau. The bureau is now able to secure satisfactory board in an overcrowded Washington. Last summer, indeed, conditions became so bad that the bureau of standards was forced to close its doors. The bureau is now able to secure satisfactory board in an overcrowded Washington. Last summer, indeed, conditions became so bad that the bureau of standards was forced to close its doors.

Social Features Stressed.

According to Dr. E. B. Rouse, in the chair of the bureau of standards and chairman of the executive committee in charge of the operation of the luncheon, considerable stress is placed on the social features of the club. He considers this one of the chief factors in the success of any cooperative enterprise. The tables in this luncheon for example, are always set for social purposes. Each place has been given a number. Every month all the numbers are shuffled about, and the employees are asked to draw. The one who draws No. 1 sits at the head of the table, and the number for the next month is drawn by the employee who sits next to her. This prevents the members of the club from becoming divided into cliques, for every month they are thrown with new table companions. The members are coaxed for what they can do to help the club. Some of them do not like it—especially the women employees, who fall to recognize the value of this change in social environment. They are coaxed for what they can do to help the club. Some of them do not like it—especially the women employees, who fall to recognize the value of this change in social environment.

Once having been aroused, the co-operative spirit at the bureau of standards did not stop with the establishment of a luncheon. A new scheme was soon on foot, and this time it was the lunchroom. A new scheme was soon on foot, and this time it was the lunchroom. A new scheme was soon on foot, and this time it was the lunchroom. More New Homes to Be Built

HOUSING CO. INCREASES ITS SCOPE

WORK WILL START IN THREE WARDS AT ONCE.

TO GRADE PROPERTY ON RACINE ST.

L. E. Hall Announces That First 26 Houses Are Practically Completed.

Following the announcement made yesterday by L. E. Hall, manager of the Samson Tractor company, the building of a mammoth new housing project in the First, Second and Third wards would start at once.

According to the present plan of the housing corporation, the houses will be erected on a plot of Palm street near Highland avenue. In the First ward, on a plot at the corner of Yuba street and St. Mary's avenue in the Second ward and on the Carlson street on Racine street in the Third ward.

Nearly Completed.

Mr. Hall said that the 26 houses on Fremont street were practically completed and would be ready for occupancy in a short time.

"We started work this morning on 50 foundations on the Carlson property," Mr. Hall said, "and the work will be pushed to completion."

In the second ward nine houses will be erected at once on the property recently purchased by the Janesville Housing corporation. Work on the foundations and frame work started this morning and Mr. Hall said he hopes to break all records for speed and workmanship in erecting these houses.

The first ward on Palm street near Highland avenue several houses will be built at once. Work will start in a few days but it is not known as to when the last house will be built on the plot in the First ward.

Grading Property.

Mr. Hall said that the work of grading the property of the corporation started this morning and as soon as the grading is completed that the building of houses on the property will start.

The 26 houses on Fremont street are being built according to Mr. Hall and at the present time are practically completed. All of the slower work has been finished and only a few small details are left before the houses will be ready for occupancy.

"We are not having any trouble engaging laborers and skilled workmen for work on the houses," Mr. Hall said, "and I do not anticipate that we will have any trouble in securing the help we need."

ALLIED INTERVENTION IN HUNGARY IS THE TOPIC BEFORE ALLIES

Paris, July 18.—The principal topic of discussion before the allied supreme council yesterday, the Journal says, was allied intervention in Hungary, "where military action seems the only means to end a situation dangerous for Rumania and Poland."

The committee of the chamber of deputies which is considering the treaty of peace today, took up a report on German colonies. This report says that the nations of Poland and the Kamun to France only revives the prior rights of France from a political viewpoint. It adds, however, that a recent accord between France and Great Britain has been reached, and that each of these colonies.

Premier Clemenceau, in appearing before the committee declared that the security of France was guaranteed by the treaty of peace and the treaties between France and the United States and France and Great Britain. Mr. Clemenceau reviewed the proceedings in the peace conference regarding the fate of the Rhine, filing with the committee a series of documents on the subject. He recalled that in the opinion of Marshal Foch the bridgeheads of the Rhine should be established and occupied permanently and that he had been obliged to choose between that protection which France alone would have been obliged to assure and the protection afforded by the American and British interests.

FORT ATKINSON HAS MONSTER WELCOME FOR SERVICE SONS

(By Staff Correspondent.)

Fort Atkinson, July 18.—Over three thousand people from all parts of the country attended the home-coming celebration for the returned soldiers and sailors here yesterday. It was a grand welcome home. These returning uniforms were given all privileges and the best of treatment.

The feature of the day was the grand parade, which it is said, has never been excelled in this part of the country. It was formed at 10 o'clock and marched through the main streets. The parade was a grand success. The parade was a grand success. The parade was a grand success.

Dinner Served in Park.

Over three hundred soldiers, sailors and marines were served a free dinner at one o'clock in the park. The dinner was made at a large tent and served on tables, forming a square, with Governor Philipp at the head.

The Fort Atkinson baseball team won from the Sheboygan team by a score of 6 to 3. The Fort's lineup was as follows: L. Lewis, 1b; Witte, 2b; Wycoff, rf; Pederson, 3b; Cavanaugh, 2b; Muench, ss; G. Lewis, lf; Hornickie, c; Tiley, p; Beske, p.

The Sheboygan team's lineup was composed of the following: Wilbert, 1b; Brady, ss; Krueger, 1b; Brann, p; Scholz, 2b; Dunbar, rf; Kober, c; Witke, cf; Wangeman, 3b. Joe Statz of Fort Atkinson umpired the game. The bleachers could accommodate only a small part of the crowd, and those unable to watch the game amused themselves by visiting the side shows and lemonade stands. Music was furnished by the Stelnie band of Madison and a quartet.

Airplane Does Stunts

The interest around the ball game was centered around the airplane, which landed from Green Bay at 1 o'clock. This airplane belongs to the Green Bay Aero club and amused the crowd by doing several tall spins and nose dives. From five o'clock until dark the airplane took people riding for 15 minutes for each person, at $1 a minute. Mrs. H. Curtis was the first to go up. It became dark before all the people could be accommodated. Eighteen people took trips.

Holland Will Give up Kaiser at The Hague

Paris, July 18.—The Nord Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung of Berlin, the mouth-piece of the government under the imperial regime, declares it has information that Holland will consent to the extradition of former Emperor William, according to a Berlin dispatch to Paris newspapers. The formal handing over of the former emperor to the allies, it adds, will take place at The Hague.

COUNTY SANATORIUM WILL BE ERECTED IN 1920; LAND BOUGHT

Rock county's new tuberculosis sanatorium will be built on the Hemmingsway property, north of Janesville, on the Edgerton road, directly south of the county farm, according to an announcement made today by Martin Paulson, member of the Rock county board.

Mr. Paulson said that 100 acres of the Hemmingsway farm had been purchased by the county. The committee in charge of purchasing the site has closed the contract. The county will pay $200 an acre for the land, and final possession and a deed will be given to the county April 1, 1920.

The entire tract will not be used for a sanatorium site. The new institution will be built to the west of the Edgerton road, along the river and will have about 15 or 20 acres reserved for grounds. The rest of the land will be turned over to the county poor farm.

The proposed site for the sanatorium on this tract has been approved by the special meeting of the Rock County Medical society. The clause in the contract which gives the county possession on April 1 next will provide for an actual construction work on the institution this year.

In the meantime all plans and specifications will be completed and bids asked for so the work can start as soon after April 1, 1920, as the weather will permit.

EX-KAISER IS CRITICALLY ILL

Berlin, July 18.—The pan-German Deutsche Zeitung, which stands close to former royal circles, takes a serious view of the illness of former Emperor William calling it "deep melancholy." It is said that the one time monarch is so depressed that his physician views his condition as critical.

FIGHTERS DRIVEN BACK BY FLAMES

EVERY AVAILABLE MAN IN MONTANA, IDAHO, WASHINGTON, CALLED OUT.

HIGH WINDS FAN BLAZES

Parched Country Makes Efforts of Combatants Almost Useless.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Spokane, Wash., July 18.—Every available man in western Montana, Northern Idaho and eastern Washington is being employed by the federal forest service and the private forest protective associations to fight the forest fires in Montana and Idaho, that today were threatening the most fertile Montana towns and millions of feet of standing white pine.

Nearly a thousand men were fighting 12 forest fires in northern Idaho and western Montana.

Scanned by a high wind, three fires in northern Idaho were burning beyond control of inadequate crews of fire fighters.

One blaze nine miles north of Sandpoint, Idaho, was reported eating its way northward and eastward on both sides of the Priest river on a front of several miles. A second blaze nine miles south of Sandpoint was said to be threatening a number of farm houses.

Two Ranches Burned.

A fire on Pack river had burned over two ranches and was sweeping northward on a front of four miles.

Several hundred acres of white pine had been burned over by a fire on the west fork of Steamboat Creek, near the Couer d'Alene river.

High winds and abnormally high temperatures, combined with parched forests, are all but rendering the efforts of 1,000 men fighting the many forest fires, useless. The towns threatened with destruction are Atherton and St. George, Idaho.

Fighters Beaten Back.

Between 700 and 1,000 fires in the Helena forest are burning. The blaze has been burning for weeks and most of the time under control, but today's high winds spread them rapidly and meagre news indicated the fighters are being beaten steadily backward.

Shortage of fire fighters is hampering the forest service officials. Ranchers and farmers have turned out to assist in fighting the fires.

To attempt to stop the Rattlesnake creek fire in the Missoula, Montana forest, the fighters have made a fire line of more than 23 miles.

Woman Takes Life; Jumps Into Cistern

Mrs. Rose Emma Eales, 165 Locust street, committed suicide by drowning about 3 o'clock this morning, when she jumped into a cistern containing seven feet of water. When found by the police Mrs. Eales was floating on top of the water with her face downward. Believing that she might have been murdered an examination was made but no bruises were found.

A neighboring woman caring for her sick husband during the night heard the splashing of water and telephoned the police. Officers Weber and Myers went to the Eales home, and as Officer Weber flashed his light into the cistern the body of Mrs. Eales was revealed.

Connel Lynn Whaley was called and after a close examination he announced that no inquest would be held.

It is a suicide without any doubt," Mr. Whaley said.

A short distance from the cistern a note written on a receipt from a local butcher shop was found. It simply read "Good-bye all." There was no signature but it is believed to have been written by Mrs. Eales.

Mrs. Eales had been in ill health for several months and had also been worrying over financial matters.

She was 46 years of age and had lived in Janesville for many years. She was born in Itasca, Wis., in February, 1873. She leaves to mourn her loss two daughters, Mrs. Frank Spradley and Mrs. John Eales, and a son, Delbert, both of Janesville, her mother, four sisters and four brothers.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

CHURCHES CAN GET WINE TO BE USED FOR SACRAMENTS

Washington, July 18.—Regulations just issued by the bureau of internal revenue afford every religious organization in the United States opportunity to obtain wine for sacramental purposes.

Where sacramental wines are produced in the United States, the usual internal revenue tax must be paid and accurate records kept of all shipments.

Churches not having hierarchical organizations will obtain wine on the application of the minister or duly authorized officer of the congregation.

Jewish congregations, each of which is a separate entity under no superior prelate, will obtain wine for their services on application of the rabbi. The historic mend, brewed from grapes and honey, will continue to be used in the passover feast. The bureau has ruled, contrary to erroneous reports that meat was prohibited, that the drink may be made in accordance with Jewish families, when intended for use in the religious festival.

Brewers Contest 14 Bow.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 18.—The ruling of United States Attorney R. L. Crawford that the manufacture or sale of beer containing less than one-half of one percent alcohol or any percentage of alcohol, would be considered in violation of the wartime prohibition act, "is untenable and unjustifiable" according to C. A. Fagan, counsel for the Pittsburgh Brewing company who announced last night that he had received the opinion from the department of justice at Washington.

"My opinion is unchanged as to the right to manufacture and sell beverages having an alcoholic content of less than one-half of one percent," said Mr. Fagan, "and I shall continue to advise my clients accordingly."

A CIVIC SURVEY IS NECESSARY

A thorough civic survey is a necessary step in preparing for the working out of a comprehensive city plan for Janesville. Such a survey would cover an accurate investigation of present conditions, of population, topography, transportation, traffic facilities, housing, schools, playgrounds, parks, and every other factor, having to do with urban efficiency.

Such a survey, when properly completed, would show the absolute necessity of basing city planning upon existing conditions. No practical citizen today would think of disregarding conditions that already exist and attempting irrespective of a sane use of these already established factors, the creation of an ideal and thereon a plan which, no matter how perfect, would involve ridiculous, extravagant expense in reconstruction.

President Continues Conferences With Republicans On Peace Treaty.

(By Associated Press)

Washington, July 18.—Determined to again attempt repeal of the daylight savings law even at the risk of another presidential veto, republicans of the house agriculture committee today, over objections of democrats, included again in the agricultural appropriation bill the repealing rider and the house rules committee provided for an hour's debate on it.

Washington, July 18.—President Wilson still is insistent that the peace treaty and league of nations covenant be ratified without reservations. Senator Capper, republican, said today prior to a conference with the president at the White House.

Senator Capper said the president took the position that adoption of reservations by the senate was certain to be interpreted abroad and would set a precedent which might be followed by other nations.

Although the agricultural appropriation bill had the right of way, house leaders expected late today to resume debate on the prohibition enforcement legislation. Debate now centers on the section of the bill carrying provisions for enforcing constitutional prohibition which becomes effective next January.

Senate leaders cleared the way for prompt enactment today of the $63,000,000 sundry civil appropriation bill as passed yesterday by the house with an increase from $6,000,000 to $14,000,000 in the appropriation for vocational education of soldiers and sailors. President Wilson's objections in his veto of the original measure. Before the senate convened the appropriations committee ordered the bill reported favorably without amendments.

President Wilson continued his conferences with republican senators today, discussing the peace treaty and the league of nations covenant. Lengthy sessions were held at Iowa and Kellogg of Minnesota. Later he had engagements with Senator Capper and McNary.

Senator Quiet.

Neither Senator Kenyon nor Senator Kellogg would discuss their conversations with the president, but as he went to the White House, Senator Kenyon said he intended to ask about the statement of Senator Swanson, democratic, Virginia, in the senate recently that the league would withdraw from the league whenever it desired, adding that this was an important point which would clarify the situation.

When the president was conferring with the senators the foreign relations committee continued its sessions for the reading of the treaty text. Progress was slow. The reading may be completed by the end of the week. Without debate the senate today acted on President Wilson for the facts in charges against American missionaries in Korea.

It is asked about the case of the Rev. E. M. Mowry of Mansfield, Ohio, a Presbyterian missionary pronounced guilty of complicity in the Korean revolutionary movement, and also about the charges against E. B. Bell another missionary.

Would Curtail Trade.

To curtail restrictions on trade with Germany while the peace treaty is being considered by the senate, Senator Fall, republican, New Mexico, introduced today an amendment to the sundry civil appropriation bill declaring that peace "being declared" no part of the funds in the bill should be used to enforce the trading with the enemy act.

There was disagreement over the exact meaning of the amendment which would insert a provision "that the status of peace between the former imperial German government and the United States of America being declared" to exist "to part of the money should be used to enforce the trading with the enemy act."

Senator Fall declared that while his amendment was only "a limitation on an appropriation" it would remove the effects of "propaganda" which he charged was being brought to bear on the senate to ratify the treaty so that the war would be formally ended.

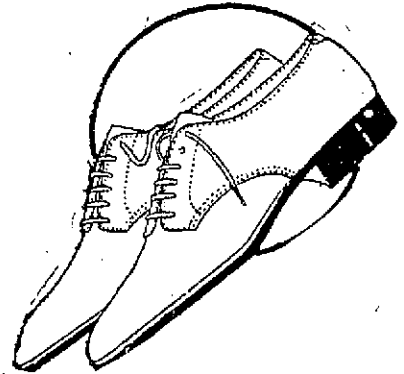

Senator Underwood, democrat, Alabama, objecting to the proposal, said it seemed to him "an effort by indirect means to declare a status of peace without awaiting the usual course, ratification of the treaty."

pantry of the lunchroom. Strict account was kept of what they bought, which was added to their lunch bills every month.

Pauline is Grocery Store.

Although the cook soon passed on to sample other opportunities, as is the way of cooks, the market department of the lunchroom expanded to the size of a young grocery store. Shelves, more shelves, and then a counter had to be erected to take care of the over-increasing stock. Everything from candy and canned goods to meat and mustard were sold there. A manager had to be employed, who gave his whole time to the work, at a salary of $85 a month. Only one important change was made in the plan of operation, and that required the members to pay for their supplies in advance. Each man taking advantage of the cooperative buying plan, was given a monthly discount allowance and deposited that amount with the treasurer of the club every month. This permitted the club to pay its bills promptly, thus taking advantage of the two percent discount allowed on prompt settlements by wholesalers.

The lunchroom store grew until it was doing a business in groceries alone of $3,000 a month, but this was not enough. The market club still felt the expansive impulse, so it began adding other things—men's furnishings, pocket knives, flash lights, and a host of miscellaneous articles, all admitted by the consuming male. It became apparent that the store was getting much too large for the lunchroom and that if it kept on growing in this it would collapse the activities of the lunchroom itself. So it was decided that it must be moved. The government donated a plot of ground adjacent to the bureau on which a cooperative store was to be built. The necessity of raising sufficient capital to build on it.

Cooperative Society Formed.

To do this it admitted outside and turned the lunchroom market club into a Rochdale cooperative society with a large group of stockholders. The store no longer belongs exclusively to the bureau, but is a community store, in which all are equal. It is capitalized at $51,000, in part by the government, and the common stock at one dollar a share, corresponding to membership dues; and preferred stock at $25 a share. The cooperative believes that an investment of capital should be rewarded at the prevailing rates of interest, so that all the holders of preferred stock in the cooperative have an annual dividend of 6 percent. As in the bureau store, the customers must pay in advance for their supplies. The overhead expenses of the store are lower than those of a lower price than the chain stores, but the prices are lower than the ordinary grocery. Any profit which is left over at the end of the month is divided among the members of the society on a cooperative basis. Last month, this profit amounted to 5 per cent.

"HARD-BOILED" SMITH GIVEN U. S. ATTENTION

Washington, July 18.—Army officers composing the court martial that tried Lieutenant "Hard-boiled" Smith, and Lieutenant Mason, formerly in charge of American military prisoners in France where soldiers are alleged to have been beaten mercilessly, will be called before a special house war investigation committee within a few days to explain the sentences they imposed, according to Representative Dallinger, republican, Massachusetts.

Other witnesses, Mr. Dallinger declared in a prepared statement, will testify that the trial of these two men was a "joke." Both Smith and Mason were given only sentences of dishonorable discharge, the statement asserted, despite testimony of their brutality.

"Hard-boiled" Smith arrived at Fort Jay, N. Y., the other day," Dallinger declared, "and was almost at once seen by one of the victims there serving sentence. He was recognized by him and beaten to a pulp and I believe he is now in the hospital recovering from a punishment meted out to him by these very men whom he had himself tortured."

100,000 BUILDERS IN CHICAGO FACE IDLENESS

Chicago, July 18.—More than 100,000 men employed in Chicago building operations will be idle by tonight unless strikes for higher pay, involving about 50,000 of their number, are called off. An ultimatum has been issued by the building trades that they return to work by 8 o'clock this morning was issued yesterday by the Building Construction Employers' association.

The 16,000 carpenters will ignore the order, according to D. J. Ryan, secretary of the joint arbitration board and member of the carpenters' district council.

The remainder of the men who are out there to enforce demands of their own or in sympathy with the carpenters, also will ignore the contractors' order, declared Edward J. Edwards, secretary of the Chicago Federation of Labor.

The lockout may be extended to the brick and lumber yards, said the gravel pits. It will mean the closing of about 50,000 workers.

LAWRENCE STORY DENIED BY SUSPECT FROM STOUGHTON

After being detained by the police for 24 hours on information furnished by Raymond Lawrence, who was arrested several days ago charged with participating in several holdups, a Stoughton young man was released by Acting Chief of Police Thomas Morrissey this morning.

The young man was taken into custody after Lawrence had confided in Sheriff Fred Beley that Murray, who was arrested with Lawrence, was of the husband of a Stoughton woman.

According to the story told the police the young man started to keep company with the woman while her husband was in France. The young man's story was signed by the woman's husband returned from France and the young man was forced to withdraw his story.

Lawrence asserted that he did not want to lose the woman and he came to Murray and offered him $1,000 if he would murder the ex-soldier, veteran of the Argentine.

Mr. Morrissey refused to confirm Lawrence's story and the young man simply when accused of it by Chief Morrissey. He told the chief that he didn't know where the woman's husband was. The woman at present is working in Janesville.

SKIP-STOP SYSTEM URGED FOR CAR LINES

Washington, July 18.—Financial experts, car builders, supply men, operators, and executives today testified before the federal electrical railway commission regarding the street railway situation throughout the country and offered suggestions for relief.

Included in the list were Francis H. Stassen, New York; J. H. Bullington, Philadelphia; W. J. Barry, New York; Miles B. Lambert, Pittsburgh; H. A. Englund, Philadelphia; and Clarence Renshaw, New York.

Much interest centered in the testimony of Mr. J. H. Bullington, who talked of the economics which can be effected with the co-operation of the public and which would add to the financial relief of the companies.

Under the skip-stop system introduced in many cities during the war as a fuel saving proposition and later abandoned as the number of passengers saw fit. It proved a great saver and is being advocated by some experts for general and permanent adoption.

The hearings which began last Tuesday are expected to adjourn tonight, and the case probably will continue through the week.

"Woman to Try Woman" Plan Begun in Gotham

New York.—"A woman to try a woman" movement has been started in New York as a result of a recent disclosure regarding the police department's method of arresting women who are unaccompanied in the streets at night. The movement is advocated by social leaders and women interested in social welfare.

Frequently, according to complaints, the police have arrested innocent women, charged with soliciting and convicted them despite the defendant's plea of guiltlessness.

Recent investigation conducted has shown that in most of the city's courts a policeman's unsupported testimony was sufficient to convict her. Women now demand that the officer's word be supported by the man whom the woman was soliciting, and that woman lawyers be provided to get their stories and defend them.

It has been brought out in recent trials that the men in the case are rarely ever arrested, but as a result of the publicity attendant upon the question the police a few days ago dropped down on the front of a dancing academy and arrested 14 young men, all of whom were tried and convicted as flirts and fined.

WILCOX CLIMBS MOUNT RAINIER; GOES 12,000 FEET

Paradise Valley, Rainier National Park, Wash., July 18.—J. L. Wilcox, Janesville, Wis., and associated with the Lewis Knitting company, was a member of the first party which set out to climb the summit of Mount Rainier this season, and succeeded in reaching an altitude of 12,000 feet, within 2,500 feet of the summit. Other members of the party included Roger Toll, government superintendent of Rainier National park, Hans Fuhrer, a Swiss guide, and Jake Schidlo, summit guide, all of whom climbed the crest, the husband of a Stoughton woman. Joe Hazard, guide manager and a cousin to Gen. Hazard Stevens, who made the first successful summit ascent in 1870, and Miss Alma Wagen, a woman guide, who accompanied the party as far as Camp Muir, at an altitude of 10,000 feet.

Paradise Inn when the party was being organized, and Mr. Wilcox, though unused to climbing, seized the opportunity to be one of the first to make the ascent this season. The entire party left the inn an hour before midnight, July 1, attired in caulked boots and other mountain climbing paraphernalia, equipped with snowshoes, crampons, and ropes for the prevention of burn and snow-blindness, and carrying a small supply of provisions and started the climb to Camp Muir, which they reached at five o'clock the morning of July 2.

After a rest of an hour and 15 minutes, four of the party of six continued the journey. Upon reaching the high face of rock at the base of the great snow field, it was decided, in view of Mr. Wilcox's inexperience in climbing, and the doubt of making the trail through that he should join back. The remainder of the party reached the summit at 11 o'clock having made the climb in 12 hours.

The party returned to Paradise Inn at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, declaring the trail in excellent condition, and the ascent about the vigorous climb. Mr. Wilcox inspired the admiration of all who witnessed his demonstration of grit and energy.

YOUR NEW HOME IS READY

Next to Your Loved Ones---A Home is the Most Precious Thing to Have--To Own

We have three well located houses for sale: two of which have just been completed and ready for immediate occupancy. One is located on the corner of Park Ave. and Galena St., and the other two face on Galena St., opposite the Fourth Ward Park, only four blocks from the site of the new high school, but six blocks from Milwaukee St., straight back of the Grand Hotel.

They are well located, placed on large lots, surrounded by beautiful shade trees, cement sidewalks all in, nice lawns, gardens, good driveways, etc., etc. They are about the same in number of rooms, etc., but vary in shape and style.

We all know that present day prices are very high and building materials are very hard to get even at ever-soaring prices. The materials for these houses were bought some time ago and naturally at much lower than present day prices. The mechanics who built these houses are mostly our own men. In other words we dare say that it would cost from 20 to 25% more to build them today. We are positively giving you the advantages of all these things and fully believe that we are offering you THE BEST HOME BUY OF YOUR LIFE WHEN WE OFFER THEM AT

$5500.00 EACH

Cash in full; or, $2500.00 cash, and a good 3-year term mortgage on balance—with privilege of paying part each interest date.

These substantial houses are modern in every respect; all the materials to build them (bought right here in Janesville), are the very best obtainable. You will find only the very best and the highest class of workmanship throughout. Each and every mechanic who has helped to construct them will gladly vouch that they are built with only the best materials and by the most skilled workmen.

Basement under entire house, fine cement floors, laundry in basement, the famous Holland furnace, best hardware used throughout, etc., are some of the many good features of the lower section of house.

Three large rooms and reception hall on the first floor; oak floors, oak finish throughout, large windows of modern type, plate glass front doors, etc., etc.

Three good sized rooms, hall and bath on second floor, large medicine cabinet with double plate glass French mirror door, roomy closets, etc.

We can safely say that these homes will compare most favorably with homes of the much more expensive style. Owning a home brings a sense of responsibility that truly makes life worth living. It is the one material possession that is well worth all the sacrifice that is necessary to obtain it. "Home is where the heart is." Own your own home.

These homes are all ready for your inspection. In justice to yourself, you should at least see these new homes. Phone for an appointment.

News Notes from Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

The announcement that Marjorie Daw, for several years heading lady for Douglas Fairbanks, had signed a long term contract with Marshall Neilan has caused much comment in film circles. It was believed that Miss Daw and the dynamic "Doug" were professionally inseparable. During the past two years Marjorie has played the leading role in practically every one of the Fairbanks productions.

Miss Daw, who is but 17 years old, first came into prominence through her brilliant work in the Cecil de Mille productions. She is really Geraldine Farrar's protégée and played with her in "Joan, the Woman" and "The Jaguar's Claw". Following these she attracted the attention of Mary Pickford and appeared in a number of productions with that star, notably "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm."

It was then that Miss Daw signed with the Fairbanks company, during which engagement she appeared to great advantage in such productions as "He Comes Up Smiling," "Mr. Fix-It," and "The Present Time Buckaroo." At the present time Miss Daw is playing opposite Mr. Fairbanks in his latest picture.

Commenting upon the move she made in changing her allegiance Miss Daw said she believed that under Mr. Neilan she would have better opportunities to advance to that goal of every ambitious actress, stardom.

According to Miss Daw there is in her opinion no director more capable of bringing out the best there is in an actor or actress than Mr. Neilan.

GOSPEL HITS
Vivian Martin is an enthusiastic student of Bible. She says her ambition is to play in "The Doll's House."

Pearl White has signed a Fox contract which covers a number of years. Her next picture will be released in September.

Hamling has been engaged for the title role in a film production of "Everyman."

Billie Burke returns to the screen in a version of "Every Hopwood's for Eddie Love."

Famous Players-Lasky is building a new studio on Long Island. Besides the usual equipment, it contains a separate projection room for each director, barber shop, hairdressing parlor, baths, club rooms and gymnasium.

PLAYING MOTHER
Miriam Cooper is playing mother these days. She and her husband, Paul Walsh, have adopted a little boy who lost his parents in the Halifax disaster.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

UNDER THE FLAG.

Here's glory enough for any man To live and die an American. There's never a dream that a mortal holds But what lies deep in Old Glory's folds. And never a joy that he seeks on earth But what through the Flag it may come to birth.

There's nothing worth while that a man can do That can't be accomplished by standing true To the Stars and Stripes as they proudly wave. There isn't a joy which the soul may crave But what can be won by holding fast To the heritage of our splendid past.

Here in our land where all are free Lies every good which can come to be. Beneath Old Glory a man may climb To the topmost peaks of the hills sublime. May rise to splendors which few may brag And still be true to our Starry Flag.

Nothing that's good is to man denied By the Flag above, for its ways are wide And its fields are rich with the joys of life. Whatever it is that man seek by strife They may find it here if they have the will And serve their good and their country still.

Gold? It is here for the patriot's hand. Fame? It waits for a brave command. Music or art or what field you choose! There's no rare talent you cannot use To its fullest here, and still be true To the red and white and the star-filled blue.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man of 20 years and am in love with a beautiful girl. She says she loves me, but somehow she does not seem to care if she hurts my feelings, which she has done several times. She is 18 years old. Is she too young to be engaged? She has promised to be my wife in a few months. She is a good little girl and very attractive. I am afraid that if we do get married she will go with some one else, and that would break my heart.

Do you think she is too young to get married? I have a good position and am making good money. Please tell me what to do.

Yes, the girl is too young to be engaged or to marry, and so are you. Both of you should have more opportunity to see and know each other before you settle down to the obligations of an engagement or the responsibilities of marriage.

It is said that the tastes of young people in their teens are very unreliable. Young people are earnest and think they know what they want, but in later years they smile upon the loves and ideas which they had in their teens.

If the girl loves you she will wait for you. It would be foolish to hold her by an immediate marriage. It may be sure that her love would continue to grow and that you would find it hard to have to separate or go through life in loveless marriage. A girl who loves you will wait for you. It is great possibility that she will continue to grow and that you would find it hard to have to separate or go through life in loveless marriage.

Don't get married now. Give yourself and the girl at least two more years in which to test your love.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am 13 years old. There is a boy my age who is very popular among the girls. I am the only girl who has known him over a year. I have known him all my life. We both came from the same city to the same city.

He doesn't like me as well as he does other girls, although I have known him so long.

(1) How can I get him to like me as well as he does other girls?

(2) Should I go to visit at his home?

(1) The harder you try to make the boy like you, the less he will. "Seek love and it will flee from thee." A little girl of your age should enjoy girls and not give thought to boys. Work hard at school, and play with your girl friends when there is no school, so that your mind will be occupied and you will not have time to worry about a boy.

(2) Go to his home if his mother invites you, but not to see him.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I would like to have you tell me, if possible, how to use a clinical thermometer in taking temperature of a person. I have never used one and do not like to ask a physician, but want very much to know how.

I presume the end that has the mercury in should be placed under the tongue, but when I did this the mercury did not move, but remained the same.

I hope this comes under your column, and that you can make this clear to me.

The end of the thermometer is placed under the tongue. If the mercury does not move something is wrong with the thermometer.

Take it to the place where you bought it, at once and ask them to give you a good thermometer in place of the defective one.

SLIM SILHOUETTE IS STILL MODISH

BY ELOISE.

Our old friend cotton voile is certainly looking its best. It has a delicate, airy quality that is just what we need in these hot days. One of the newest fashions led astray. One of the newest fabrics which is in the cotton voile family is a very modish dress made of a pretty camouflaged for the plain weave material.

This smart little frock makes good use of this new voile by combining two colors. It is a very modish dress, cut on slim lines and suitable for any hour of the summer day. The blouse which extends a few inches below the waistline is a bright blue, and it might well be that stunning cherry or crushed raspberry shade, and the skirt with its large pockets on the hips is of white or oyster shade. The pockets and the cuffs on the three-quarter sleeves are of the same color as the skirt. The dress is over one prefers. A triple white cord cinches the waist with novel effect.

Well, I should say so. I married Annie last night. Let's take it and get them moved in right off!

Annie did a little figuring that night. Bernie got $22 a week. He gave her $12 to run the house. Out of the $12 she paid the rent, which was $4 a month, or between $3 and $4 a week, and bought all the food. There wasn't a large margin left for clothes and extras. Still, it was enough.

Out of the $1 Bernie had left he paid his carfare and lunches, his $20-a-year dues to the Waterwitch Boat Club, his insurance policy for a thousand dollars, and the monthly installment on their furniture. Of the $15 a week Annie earned she gave her mother $4, which she was now going to increase to $5, so they could live a little better. Out of the $11 that was left she could still stay by a fat little sum each week for a postage and have enough for clothes and all incidentals without asking Bernie for anything.

Hospital recipe for elderberry wine: One quart of blossoms, four pounds of sugar, four quarts of water. Put the blossoms in a jar. Dissolve the sugar in the water, bring to a boiling point and pour over the blossoms. Let stand until lukewarm. Add one sliced lemon, one tablespoon of yeast; cover and let stand three days. Strain and stir in the beaten white of one egg. Put in bottles, but do not cork it tight.

Two quarts of blossoms (be sure to use just blossoms without any stems; seems like making vinegar, six gallons of water, 18 pounds of sugar. Dissolve the sugar in the water, then let it come to a boil; pour it over the blossoms and let it cool.

Add two cakes of yeast and juice and rind of two lemons and let stand eight days, stirring every day for the first eight days. Then strain and put in jars, putting a pound of raisins to each jar. Let that stand five or six months, then draw off and bottle.

Put grape leaf over each jar and small sandbag to hold it down.

USEFUL PASTES AND POLISHES

Excellent for Broken Glass—Box cement can be made by mixing powdered rice with a little cold water, slowly adding to it boiling water till the right consistency is obtained. Then pour into a saucepan and boil for a minute. The paste is almost transparent and can be used for paper work for which a strong and colorless cement is required.

Excellent for Broken Glass—Plaster of paris mixed into a paste with white of egg makes a strong cement for mending broken glass or china. Another excellent cement is made by pressing into a small bottle as much kieselguhr as will fit in. Then pour in by degrees unsweetened gin, which will gradually dissolve the kieselguhr if the bottle is kept at a warm place.

Woodwork Polish—One tablespoon turpentine, one tablespoon vinegar, two tablespoons olive oil. This can be kept in a bottle and should always be well shaken before using.

Furniture Polish—Here is another formula for furniture polish which is also quite effective: One ounce beeswax, one-half ounce castile soap, one pint turpentine. Pare the soap and wash it in a quart bottle and let it stand the turpentine. Let it remain for 24 hours and shake the bottle well to mix the ingredients. Next day shake it well again and the bottle will be ready to use. On the following day it should be of the consistency of cold cream, and is then ready for use. Always shake well before using.

Blueberries Plentiful. Waupaca—Never were there more blueberries or raspberries than this year, and housewives and children pick great baskets full in adjacent marshes. Currants also have been plentiful, and prospects are good for a large blackberry crop.

BY RUTH CAMERON

WHY WE LOVE THE OLD JOKE.

How people do love the old jokes! Really it does seem as if antiquity added to the value of a joke just as it does to the value of furniture or curios or rugs.

Some years ago I heard it said that a successful stage manager insisted that at least half the jokes in his musical comedies be old ones because he would be sure of that number of hits. I rather doubted the statement at that time, crediting it to some one who wanted to say something paradoxical, but I am coming to believe in its truth. And the agency of my change of mind is the way old jokes crop out in the newspapers, the magazines and in the people's mouths, and the enthusiastic way in which they are accepted.

Do you remember the old joke about the point bear? A foreigner asks an American what a polar bear does and is told that "he, well—he sits on the ice and he—he eats fish." The foreigner looks greatly surprised and says, "I have never seen what they eat him to do that for." It develops that he has been asked to be a "polar bear" at a friend's funeral.

Do They Appear Like Seventeen Year Locusts?

Now I can remember when that joke was new (by the way was it new then?) That phase has just occurred to me. Perhaps it was merely a series of reappearances like the seventeen year locusts, and I know by experience it with certain events that it must have been at least 15 years ago.

And yet the other day I heard a group of people laugh heartily and unafraidly when that joke was told. They were not of an appreciative age at the time I first heard that joke. Had they all forgotten it then, or did they remember it and like it better for old times sake?

The Eternal Milkman Joke. Again, in a periodical which is supposed to have the latest jokes I actually found the eternal milkman episode. Milkman, presenting house-keeper with a bottle. (Isn't it an interesting detail that in the old days the milkman was pouring milk into a can?) "It looks like rain."

Housekeeper: "It generally does." And then at the movies I find our favorite humorist robbing the grave of what should be a decently buried jest, when he gestures the man beside him at the banquet to stop eating his soup for a minute so that he can hear what the man on the other side is trying to say to him.

And just the other day I heard a person, in the fact, we love the old jokes so well because they are exceptionally good jokes; if they were not exceptionally good jokes they would not have a chance to come back. Perhaps that sounds like feminine logic to you. As a matter of fact it did not come out of my brain but was supplied me by a man.

The king of course never had known of the secret door which led to the passage-way might lead to. When he and Jack and the guards started down the passage to explore it and try to find the booty taken by the robbers, three or four of the strongest guards were sent on ahead. Jack wanted to take the lead, to be sure, but the king told him that it would be safer for both of them to follow the guards. Jack soon found that he was right, for two or three times in turning corners in the darkness the guards fell into holes or stumbled upon stairs which led to new levels.

The guard in the lead finally stopped and whispered back that he could see a light farther down the passage. From then on everyone walked on tiptoe.

At last Jack and his friends could make out the cause of the light. It was a small fire in the center of a room. Around the fire sat a dozen men. You could tell in a minute that there were more members of the robber band that had been stripping the castle.

With their guns in front of them the guards rushed the robbers. Four of them were caught. The other two dashed through a small doorway at the other side of the room and disappeared. The king, Jack and two of the guards kept on their trail.

This floor of the passage-way ran down hill. The king and Jack fell several times, and almost rolled over each other. They could hear the two men running and stumbling in the tunnel. Imagine their surprise when on reaching the doorway they found that it led them into little court in the center of the castle. Across from them in the court was a door leading into the kitchen. It dawned on Jack that the king that was (the way the robbers had gotten into the castle, because the court, being in the center of the building, could not be seen by the guards around the castle. The court had not been guarded because no one thought for a minute that anyone could get into it by any other way than the kitchen door. This door stood open and Jack and his friends knew that the robbers had run into the kitchen and by this time probably had slipped out the other door of that room into the castle grounds.

Although they thought the two men probably had escaped, they kept on after them.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO DR. BRADY, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

THE UNPLEASANT TRUTH

Most serious diseases have steadily diminished in frequency in the United States and Canada in the past 50 years. One exception (heart, artery, cardiovascular disease of the rule is kidney degeneration), which has increased nearly 20 percent in that time. The other exception is cancer, which has increased over 30 percent in 20 years as a cause of death.

I have harped on cardiovascular disease in season and out of season, with the purpose of arousing curiosity about this great cause of physical failure at middle age. Knowing that there is such a condition, and suspecting that you are threatened with it, you are likely to take measures to prevent an insidious disease which you might otherwise have attributed to "your age" or "old people."

There is a similar excuse for discussing cancer in a family newspaper—to urge timely action upon those who might incline to procrastinate. For the life-saving aspect of the cancer problem comprises these two facts:

1. Cancer may occur in any family.
2. Early recognition of the disease is indispensable in order to obtain a cure.

Cancer is neither contagious nor infectious. There is no evidence that cancer has ever been acquired by contact with one who has the disease.

Cancer is usually painless in the early, curable stages. The earliest signs are not serious, impaired in the early stages; indeed, an individual developing cancer may appear robust and strong.

Half of the cases of cancer are curable at the onset. Therefore any man or woman 40 or more years of age who begins to have obstinate "indigestion" or "dyspepsia" must bear in mind the possibility of cancer of the stomach.

Cancer of the womb is next in frequency. Any woman, especially the mother of several children, who begins to suffer from irregular discharge at bleeding or any irregularity of menstruation, or who has a discharge at any time, owes it to her family and herself to go at once to her physician for advice, and not be misguidedly told "it is nothing."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

First Aid for Burns. Please suggest a good first-aid dressing to use for accidental burns. (C. D.)

ANSWER—Apply clean (sterilized) gauze or soft muslin wet with a solution of a heaping tablespoonful of salicylic acid (dissolved in alcohol) in a glass of boiled water cooled to comfortable degree.

Our fathers are brothers, we are each thirty years old and sound in mind and body, and we want to get married. Is there likelihood of handicapped children of cousins' marriage? (S. & L.)

ANSWER—If there is no family history of defect in the family there is no reason why handicapped children should be born to you. If there is a family history of such a defect, the chance of defective offspring is obviously doubtful when cousins marry.

The Matter Looked Into. Two weeks ago I wrote, enclosing stamps and requesting you to send me articles on hair treatment and constipation. To date there have not been any replies and I would like you to look into the matter. (Mrs. D. J. M.)

ANSWER—I looked into the Salvation Army drawer, and sure enough there were five two-cent stamps, but I have not had time to look into the matter. I cannot use it up directing envelopes.

The Magnificent Ambersons

By BOOTH TARKINGTON

Copyright by Doubleday, Page & Co. George murmured a friendly enough good night without pausing. Ordinarily he was not ashamed of the Minifers; he seldom thought about them at all, for he belonged, as most American children do, to the mother's family—but he was anxious not to linger with Miss Morgan in the vicinity of old John, whom he felt to be a disgrace.

He pushed brusquely through the fringe of calculating youths who were gathered in the arches, watching for chances to dance only with girls who would soon be taken off their hands, and led his stranger lady out upon the floor. They caught the time instantly, and were away in the waltz.

George danced well, and Miss Morgan seemed to float as part of the music, the very dove itself of "La Paloma." George became conscious of strange feelings within him: an exaltation of soul, tender but indefinite, and seemingly located in the upper part of his diaphragm.

The stopping of the music came upon him like the waking to an alarm clock; for instantly after seven, of the calculating persons about the entryways bore down upon Miss Morgan to secure dances. George had to do with one already established as a belle, it seemed.

"Give me the next and the one after that," he said hurriedly, recovering some presence of mind. Just as the nearest applicant reached them, "And give me every third one the rest of the evening." She laughed. "Are you asking?" "What do you mean, asking?" "It sounded as though you were just telling me to give you all those dances."

"Well, I want 'em," George insisted. "Are you going to give me?" "Good gracious!" she laughed. "Yes!"

The applicants flocked round her, urging contracts for what remained, but they did not dislodge George from her side, though he made it evident that they succeeded in annoying him; and presently he extricated her from an accumulating rage—she must have consoled in the exclamation and bore her off to sit beside him upon the stairway that led to the musicians' gallery.

George Danced Well and Miss Morgan Seemed to Float.

retired, yet had a view of the room. "How'd all those ducks get to know you so quick?" George inquired, with little enthusiasm.

"Oh, I've been here a week." "Looks as if you'd been pretty busy," he said. "Most of those ducks, I don't know what my mother wanted to invite 'em here for."

"Perhaps it was on account of their parents," Miss Morgan suggested mildly. "Maybe she didn't want to offend their fathers and mothers."

"Oh, hardly! I don't think my mother need worry much about offending anybody in this old town." "It must be wonderful," said Miss Morgan. "It must be wonderful, Mr. Amberson—Mr. Minifer, I mean."

"What must be wonderful?" "To be so important as that!" "That isn't important," George assured her. "Anybody that really is anybody ought to be able to do about as they like in their own town. I should think!"

She looked at him, critically from under her shading lashes—but her eyes grew gentler almost at once. In truth, they became more appreciative than critical. George's imperious good looks were altogether manly, yet approached actual beauty as closely as a boy's good looks should dare; and dance music and flowers have some effect upon nineteen-year-old girls as well as upon eighteen-year-old boys.

The stairway was drafty; the steps were narrow and uncomfortable; no older person would have remained in such a place. Moreover, these two young people were strangers to each other; neither had said anything in which the other had discovered the slightest intrinsic interest; there had not arisen between them the beginnings of congeniality, or even of friendliness—but stairways near ballrooms have more to answer for than have moonlit lakes and mountain sunsets.

Age, confused by its own long accumulation of follies, is everlastingly inquiring, "What does she see in him?" as if young love came about through thinking—or through conduct. At eighteen one goes to a dance, sits with a stranger on a stairway, feels peculiar, thinks nothing, and becomes incapable of any plan whatever. Miss Morgan and George stayed where they

TERRIBLE TESSIE

By Probasco.

They had agreed to this in silence and without knowing it; certainly without exchanging glances of intelligence—they had exchanged no glances at all. Both sat staring vaguely out into the ballroom, and for a time, they did not speak. Here and there word to be seen couples so carried away that, ceasing to move at the decorous, even glide, considered most knowing, they pranced and whirled through the throng, from wall to wall, galloping bounteously in abandon.

George suffered a shock of vague surprise when he perceived that his aunt, Fanny Minifer, was the lady-half of one of those wild couples. She flew over the floor in the capable arms of the queer-looking duck; for this person was her partner.

The queer-looking duck had been a real dancer in his day, it appeared; and evidently his day was not yet over. In spite of the headlong, rapidity with which he bore Miss Fanny about the big room he danced authoritatively, avoiding without effort the slightest collision with other couples, maintaining sufficient grace throughout his wildest moments, and all the while laughing and talking with his partner. What was most remarkable to George, and a little irritating, this stranger in the Amberson mansion had no vestige of the air of deference proper to a stranger in such a place; he seemed thoroughly at home. He seemed offensively so, indeed, when, passing the entrance to the gallery stairway, he disengaged his hand from Miss Fanny's for an instant, and not pausing in the dance, waved a laughing salutation more than cordial, then capered lightly out of sight.

George gazed stonily at this manifestation, responding neither by word nor sign. "How's that for a bit of freshness?" he murmured.

"What was?" Miss Morgan asked. "That queer-looking duck, waving his hand at me like that. Except he's the Sharon girls' uncle I don't know him from Adam."

"You don't need to," she said. "He wasn't waving his hand to you; he meant me."

"Oh, he did?" George was not mollified by the explanation. "Everyone seems to mean you! You certainly do seem to have been pretty busy this week you've been here!"

She pressed her bouquet to her face again and laughed into it, not displeased. She made no other comment, and for another period neither spoke.

"Well," said George finally, "I must say you don't seem to be much of a prattler. They say it's a great way to get a reputation for being wise—never saying much. Don't you ever talk at all?"

"When people can understand," she answered.

Third Quarter: Lesson III: Matthew XXVI 26-30; 1 Corinthians XI 20-34: July 20, 1919.

Golden Text: For as often as ye eat this bread and drink the cup ye proclaim the Lord's death till he comes.—1 Corinthians XI 26.

THE LORD'S SUPPER
The last supper of Jesus with his disciples is one of the most pathetic of all scenes. Betrayed by one and inadequately understood by all at the board, the Master is about to be going to shameful death between imperialism and ecclesiasticism. Yet even so the note of gladness refuses to be muted. Joy and grief are strangely blended. Jesus paradoxically gives thanks over the very cup that symbolizes his death. Hope also is there for he refuses to drink of his death. He might have repented the most unique, conspicuous and universal of all historic and personal memorials.

THE TEACHER'S LANTERN
The psychologist affirms that symbolism is indispensable, the human mind being constituted as it is. The symbol Jesus selected is unique, that it appeals to three of the physical senses simultaneously: sight, touch and taste. The little strips of part-colored ribbon worn on the left breast of the American soldier, each has its own significance. They are a substitute for the medals which the man is entitled to wear, but which the actual wearing of would be inconvenient and endangered with loss. These are colored ribbons of the Congressional Medal of Honor, in Civil, Indian, Spanish, Philippine and Boxer wars. Before the war just closed there were ten in all of these tokens. The sacrament is the Christian soldier's service sign.

His is recognized by that sign. . . . The Lord's Supper is the Christian's "Sacramentum." It is his oath of allegiance to his divine Commander, corresponding to that of the Roman soldier to his general: it is the "Eucharist," an outburst of thankful praise: it is the "Communion," sign of concord and reconciliation with God, as only friends eat together, enemies never. . . . Reconciliation on the part of the communicant with any and all with whom he is at odds, is the indispensable condition of partaking of the communion, and justly so. For how can one celebrate the event of his reconciliation with God, his father, and not be reconciled with man, his brother? . . . In the sacrament it is as if Jesus took a medalion of himself from his own bosom and gave it to the communicant, saying: "Remember me by looking at this." . . . The sacrament is commemorative. It aids the memory, recalling and preserving the memory of the supreme act of the supreme Being of all human history. . . . The sacrament is declarative. By means of it the death of Jesus is "shown forth" and the communicant, for his part, declares and acknowledges his own discipleship. . . . The continuity in the observance of the Sacrament, for two thousand years, is in itself evidence of the historicity of the event which it commemorates, just as the annual celebration of July Fourth is evidence of the Declaration of Independence. . . . Jesus has himself set an example of faithful observance of prescribed ceremony. He could challenge his enemies to show a single instance in which he had omitted anything prescribed in the

Doctor Tells How to Detect Harmful Effects of Tobacco Try These SIMPLE TESTS

New York: Doctor Connor, formerly of Johns Hopkins hospital, says: "Many men who smoke, chew or snuff incessantly and who are seemingly healthy are suffering from progressive organic ailments. Thousands of them would never have been afflicted had it not been for the use of tobacco, and thousands would soon get well if they would only stop the use of tobacco. The chief habit-forming principle of tobacco is nicotine, a deadly poison which, when absorbed by the system, slowly attacks the nerves, membranes, tissues and vital organs of the body. The harmful effect of tobacco varies with the amount consumed. One will be afflicted with general debility, others with catarrh of the throat, indigestion, constipation, nervous prostration, sleeplessness, loss of memory, lack of will power, mental confusion, etc. Others may suffer from heart disease, bronchial trouble, hardening of the arteries, tuberculosis, blindness or even cancer of the lungs, or affliction known as tobacco heart. If you use tobacco in any form you can easily detect the harmful effects by making the following simple tests: Read aloud one full page from a book. If, in the course of reading your voice becomes muffled, hoarse and indistinct, and you must frequently clear your throat, the chances are that your throat is affected by catarrh and it may be the beginning of more serious trouble. Next in the morning before taking your usual smoke, walk up three flights of stairs at a regular pace, then stop. If you find that you are out of breath, your heart beat is forced, trembling or irregular, you may be a victim of functional or organic heart trouble. If you feel that you must smoke, chew or snuff to quiet your nerves, you are a slave to the tobacco habit, and are positively poisoning yourself with the deadly drug, nicotine. In either case, you have two alternatives—keep on with the self poisoning process irrespective of the dangers and suffer the consequences, or give up the habit and escape the dangers. You can overcome the craving and stop the habit in a very short time by using the following inexpensive formula. Go to any drug store and ask for Nicotol tablets, take one tablet after each meal, and a comparatively short time you will have no desire for tobacco, the craving will have left you. Nicotol restores the health of your system, your general health will quickly improve.

NOTE—When asked about Nicotol tablets, one of our leading druggists said: "It is truly a wonderful remedy for the tobacco habit; away ahead of anything we have before sold here. We are authorized by the manufacturers to refund the money to every dissatisfied customer, and we would not permit the use of our name unless the remedy possessed unusual merit." Nicotol tablets are sold in this city under an iron-clad money-back guarantee by all the up-to-date druggists, including Peoples' Drug Co., Geo. E. King and the Reliable Drug Co.

When The Day Is Over

When the household cares and the worries of everyday life have dragged you down, made you unhappy, and there is nothing in life but headache, backache and worry, turn to the right prescription, one gotten up by Dr. Pierce fifty years ago.

Everything growing out of the ground seems intended for some use in establishing natural conditions. Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., long since found out what is naturally best for women's diseases. He learned it all through treating thousands of cases. The result of his studies was a medicine called Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This medicine is made of vegetable growths that nature surely intended for backache, headache, weakness, bearing-down pains, irregularities, pelvic inflammations, and for the many disorders common to women in all ages of life. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is made of lady's slipper root, black cohosh root, unicorn root, blue cohosh root and Oregon grape root. Dr. Pierce knew, when he first made this standard medicine, that whiskey and morphine are injurious, and so he has always kept them out of his remedies. Women who take this standard remedy know that in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription they are getting a safe woman's tonic so good that druggists everywhere sell it, in liquid or tablet form.

ALL FOOTVILLE COMING TO GAME

By George McManus.

VILLAGERS HOPEFUL OF VICTORY

(By M. A. C.)

Well, those boys out in Footville still insist that their baseball team is far superior to the Janesville Lawrence Lunch team, and to prove their assertions they are going to invade Janesville 400 yards on Sunday to watch the village team battle the Janes. Manager Jimmie Murphy of the Janes said he received a telephone call this morning from Manager Silverthorn at Footville stating that the entire village would be here for the game, and according to figures that would be about 400 persons.

While the fans in Footville are staying awake nights figuring out how their boys can get to Sam Lenquist, the local pitcher, Manager Murphy is hustling about town collecting shovels here and there to engage the Bower City band to perform during the game at the fair grounds.

At a late hour this afternoon he announced that the necessary currency had been secured and funds coming to the game will not only allow the players to perform, but they will also be forced to listen to the latest jazz pieces.

Will Stage Parade.

Prior to the game a mammoth parade will be staged in which the players of both teams will participate. It will be a grand opportunity for the local fans to get a glimpse at their players and most of the men are unknown to the local fans.

With the band hired, Manager Murphy turned his thoughts toward an umpire, and after Reno Koeh, local umpire, flatly refused all offers Jack Libby of Evansville was engaged. Libby is a good umpire, according to Manager Murphy, but if he misses another one like he did on Bud Gorman at Footville last Sunday, why it is just certain to predict that there will be something besides a ball game at the fair grounds.

Manager Murphy issued a call today for all players to get in practice and work at the fair grounds at six o'clock tonight. At that time the diamond will be put in shape for the game Sunday and the grandstand will be renovated.

Will Repair Diamond.

After the diamond has been matted a few times and one or two of the bases taken out the Janes will be put through a stiff two hour practice. The practice will be held providing the matted of the playing field is completed before Old Sol goes to bed.

Not since the old days when the Eagle team battled the Peconica boys has such interest been manifested in a new baseball game in Janesville. Every place where fans meet to discuss sports and checkers, baseball is the main topic, and it Sunday is one of these nice days a record-breaking crowd should be on hand to watch the battle.

Manager Murphy said that owing to the fact that the Beloit Pirates are playing in Chicago and the several other teams are playing on foreign fields, the crowd should be the largest of the season.

Some Teams.

Both managers assert that no changes will be made in the line-ups of the teams and it will, according to present dope, be a pitching duel between Sam Lenquist and Weber, the Footville slab artist.

Both men have pitched their teams to victory this season and the villagers frankly admit that if Sam Lenquist continues to pitch air-tight ball that their boys will have a tough time registering any more.

The line-ups will be as follows:

BRITISH CHAMP BEATS AMERICAN

London, July 18.—Jimmy Wilde, the British flyweight champion, defeated Pat Moore of Memphis, Tenn., in a twenty-round bout at the Olympia last night. The referee gave the decision to Wilde on points.

Twenty thousand persons witnessed the fight. Moore administered much punishment to his antagonist in the early stages of the bout, but at the end of the twelfth round Wilde led slightly on points.

Moore draws blood. In the 14th round Moore sent a jab to Wilde's mouth, which made the blood spurt. It was evident in the last rounds that Moore was trying for a knockout, but Wilde's ring craft and cleverness prevented the American from carrying out his plan.

On the invitation of the Prince of Wales, Gen. John J. Pershing occupied the royal box with the prince and his brother, Prince Albert. The party was cheered. Gen. Pershing frequently waved his hands or bowed his acknowledgment to the plaudits of the crowd.

SPORT SNAP-SHOTS

BY JACK KEENE.

The passing of Jack Coombs, deposited manager of the Phillies, from the major leagues in which he served for 13 years as player and team pilot, will be regretted by the great army of fans throughout the big time circuits, for the popularity of "Colby Jack" was not confined to the cities in which he played. When Coombs assumed the management of the Phillies there wasn't a man in baseball who didn't wish him well and who didn't believe that with even a fair break he would make a good showing, for Jack knows the game as few men know it.

Coombs had about made up his mind to retire from baseball last winter when William F. Baker started sportdom with his announcement of the release of Pat Moran, who had guided the Phillies since 1915. The National league meeting was in progress at the Waldorf when Baker let it be known that Pat was through, and speculations were immediately begun concerning Moran's successor. The following day Coombs, summoned from his home in Palestine, Tex., by a telegram from Baker, appeared at the Waldorf and it became known that he was Baker's first choice for the post. Coombs did not accept the position without long and careful deliberation, for he was sincere in his desire to remain at his home to look after his several business interests. At last he capitulated and Charles J. Ebbets, to whom the veteran was at the time under contract, anxious to aid Coombs, announced that he would gladly release Jack to Philadelphia.

At the outset of the season the club which was handed to Jack appeared to be of at least fairly high caliber. In the lineup were a number of heavy and consistent hitters and it was taken for granted that if the club received paralytically well, Coombs became as popular with his charges as he was with his teammates in Brooklyn and it was certain that if Coombs failed as manager it would not be through lack of co-operation on the part of his players. However, injuries to some of his most valuable players and his inability to obtain suitable substitutes for them caused him to grow discouraged, but he kept up until Baker decided to try Gavvy Cravath.

Ollie O'Mara, who was released by the Robins to the Indianapolis club of the American Association shortly after the major league season opened.

ALOFT IN TINY HANDBOX WORKS TUTOR AND PUPIL

New York, July 18.—Up aloft in a tiny handbox, so cramped for space that "gu couldn't slip a cigarette paper between 'em," two boys worked together today as tutor and pupil who, by rights, might have been chasing one another around a 24-foot ring.

For Joe McGovern, 20 year old son of "Frisbie Terry," the old time featherweight champion, is teaching the tricks of the Broad street curb brokerage game to Jimmy Rothwell, 10 year old son of Billy Rothwell, the "Young Corbett" who came out of the west years ago and knocked Terry McGovern loose from his championship and his fortune.

Both are employed by Charles A. Stoneham, to speak the sign language of the "street," for the brokerage house, Rothwell is taking his lessons from young McGovern and is "coming along" in his new job.

Joe McGovern and his now widowed mother live together in a small Brooklyn apartment on Joe's earnings, never a cent of which came from the ring.

"I never saw a prize fight in my life," said the young broker today, "and I have no desire to follow boxing. Why should I bother to see a lot of prize ring false alarms? But it's strange that the brother of the man who defeated dad should be working alongside of me. And we get along like brothers."

JOHNNY KILBANE WILL NOT RETIRE

The report emanating from Philadelphia a short time ago to the effect that Featherweight Champion Johnny Kilbane, of Cleveland, would retire from the mitt sport next October, and pass his crown over to Jack (Kid) Wolfe, his stable mate under the management of Jimmy Dunn, has been sniped by the boss of the 122 pound roost.

"Say for me," said Johnny, "that when I quit the ring the man who gets my crown will have to take it in actual battle, and no other way. I am ready to retire most any old time. I got mine out of the glove sport and I am not going to be a hog, but you cannot make it too strong that I do not approve of the stunt of passing championships to another boy. I had to fight for mine; let others do the same."

Kilbane has been inactive for several months. He lost one of his children early in the spring and he was so broken up over the loss he declared he was unable to put his mind to the business of training. With Mrs. Kilbane and his two surviving youngsters, he went to his cottage on the shores of Lake Erie early in June, and says he will remain there until Labor day.

Champion Kilbane does not have to look to the prize ring for his daily bread. He has made more than $200,000 out of the fight game and he has invested all of it wisely. Aside from owning some valuable apartment property in Cleveland, he is the junior partner in an insurance agency in his home city, from which he draws down more than $5,000 a year.

While Kilbane is idling his time away this summer, he is not neglecting his physical condition. Each day he takes a turn at some form of exercise, usually shadow boxing, with his fondness for swimming has enabled him to keep his weight down to a point where it will be but an easy matter for him to scale 122 ringside with two weeks' work. He weighed several days before the fourth when he started to Toledo to see the Willard-Dempsey mill, and with his clothes on moved the beam at 139½ pounds. Aspiring featherweights will be interested in his announcement concerning the title.
